

NOXON Internet Radio – Full Wireless Access to Napster Content throughout the House

The popular music service Napster is now available on the new NOXON iRadio Cube and all NOXON internet radios. This means users can now enjoy wireless access to the entire Napster music catalogue, currently comprising more than six million tracks. Buyers and owners of TerraTec NOXON products can try out Napster's music subscription service free for one month. They can listen to more than 540,000 albums of music in diverse genres from over 450,000 artists, as well as a wide selection of radio stations, features, and exclusive content without having to pay a per-track fee. Furthermore users can download Napster on up to three computers. Also available are extensive features including theme-based playlists and albums, artist biographies and lists of their releases, custom playlists and recommendations. After this 30-day trial period, users can opt to subscribe to Napster's service for just 9,59 pounds per month and continue enjoying their subscription. If they choose not to do this, the free trial period will end automatically.

The various NOXON products are easily integrated into wireless networks. The NOXON display enables users to browse the entire archive at Napster, where they can access all Napster playlists, the top 10, and new releases to listen to choice tracks. With Click & Action, they can copy songs to their own archive at Napster. In addition they can search for tracks by title, artist, and genre.

In addition, users are afforded access to the entire digital music library stored on their PCs' hard drives. All NOXON devices support standard audio formats such as MP3, as well as WMA with digital rights management (DRM).

Martin Hopp, General Manager of NOXON GmbH, is confident that this is a promising pairing: "Napster is one of the best-known music services in worldwide and ease of use is one of its key features. NOXON is also all about user-friendly handling." Hopp also believes that with NOXON radios, the diverse contents of various Internet portals are sure to become fixtures in users' day-to-day lives.

"With its NOXON devices, TerraTec offers radio listening pleasure beyond the main stream and for every taste. Our music offering is just as diverse and innovative, so we have found an ideal partner in TerraTec," notes Patric Niederländer, Director Business Development, Napster Europe.
