

TerraTec T3: Improved Tuner, Performance, and Quality, Full HDTV Support, Smaller Footprint - Perfect for Digital TV on the Go

A new member has joined TerraTec Electronic's young Premium family! The smallest of the bunch, it is the perfect choice for users seeking the best tuner technology in a tiny package. With the TerraTec T3, the Nettetal-based multimedia specialist is bringing to market a smart DVB-T solution that is sure to serve users well every day as a second television set offering full HDTV support. Priced at 69.99 euros, the TerraTec T3 will ship in May.

Equipped with a retractable USB plug, this ultra compact DVB-T stick transforms every netbook, notebook, or desktop computer into an HDTV-enabled television set. Simply plug it into any available USB 2.0 port and enjoy the many supplementary functions. And for even more value, the TerraTec T3 is suited for universal use courtesy of Windows TerraTec Home Cinema (THC) software developed in Germany. Elgato's EyeTV lite software connects the stick to the Mac world.

On top of all this, TerraTec's popular Premium package brings value-adding extras to the computer, including high-quality components, a 36-month warranty with lifelong technical support, captivating design, sustainable packaging, and a hardcopy manual in German. Drivers and software – also developed in Germany - come on an included DVD. Regular automatic updates via Internet ensure full compatibility. TerraTec designed this line with environmental concerns in mind, so this product ships in a reusable sheet-metal box.
